WELCOME TO THE BASH! Est. 2013

The Bash began in 2013 on the red sand of the Simpson Desert, not far from the outback town of Birdsville. We staged an impromptu concert on top of the famed Big Red dune with the Australian icon, John Williamson. With little more than a PA system and his guitar, John played to 600 revellers under starry outback skies. This tiny concert in the desert struck a chord and the next year it became the Birdsville Big Red Bash.

Since then the Bash has grown each year, and in April 2022 we held the inaugural Mundi Mundi Bash set on the red dirt plains of the NSW Outback.

As we've grown, we've held onto our original Bash spirit: creating unforgettable experiences that bring people together through the power of music, community, and celebration, where memories are made, friendships are forged, and the spirit of adventure thrives.

Today the Bash is more than just a music festival. It's a family-friendly, dog-friendly, inclusive outback community. We can't wait to see you outback for the 2024 Mundi Mundi Bash!
